DANIEL RODRIGUEZ

Member of The New York Tenors ~ Retired NYPD Officer

Daniel Rodriguez is known to many as "The Voice that Healed a Nation." As an "official singer" for the NYPD Ceremonial Unit, Rodriguez sang at many functions, and later at memorials in the aftermath of the September 11th attacks. After 9/11, then New York Mayor Rudolph Giuliani helped set up an audition with Placido Domingo, with whom Rodriguez studied, as well as the staff at the Young Artist Program in Washington D.C. for a year and half. His operatic debut took place in June of 2006, where Rodriguez sang the role of Canio in "Pagliacci" with the Chelsea Opera Company in New York City. In 2007, Rodriguez was named for "Best Performance by a Leading Male" for the 2006-2007 season by Opera Online for his portrayal of Canio with Granite State Opera.
